Metals Picked Up From the Battlefields Sold to Germans in Exchange.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 13.-The Germans are collecting coppes, lead and gine broughout Belgium evidently with the intention of working the metals over again into war materials. Around the Liege battlefield and about Haden and Diest, thousands of rine bullets and cases have been collected by the Belgains, who sell them to the Germana for provisions.

The general economic conditions in Belgium are at present not strikingly bad, it was stated here. In several of the cities such necessities as bread. butter and meat are cheaper than in Holland. This is partly due to the work carried out by the American recommittee in reaching many of the towns with supplies.

The economic situation in Holland is not much easier, though the stock exchange reopens January 4. Trade at Rotterdam is also reported somewhat livelier. The supply of wheat in Holland is not sufficient to permit the baking of white bread.

in the absence of an adequate train-of the country has its own indi-woman who goes into Southern homes will be much more successful if she be a Southern woman. The endowment will be handed over to the trustees of the George

We intend to do whatever we can to make this project a success. believe, if established, the training school at Peabody College will be of untold service in extending the rural nursing work in the South and we will send our own purses there for training. For a long time we have wanted a center for th education of rural nurses in that section of the country, but so far have had to be content with sending our nurses to Richmond, Va.

The country life committee of the woman's department of the National Civic Federation, of which Mrs. Owen is chairman, in addition to the memorial to Mrs. Wilson, has a program at present which includes four wide activities. The first is the waging of a campaign to secure the best health conditions in rural communities.

The second embraces a plan for popularizing domestic science housewives of small towns. The third is the encouragement of more country life literature in the pub-lic school readen, throughout the land. The fourth is the development of the school house as the rural social and civic center.
